TO KNOW

KRISTIN TOUSSAINT, REPORTER

Bostonians and out-of-towners alike know Faneuil Hall, even if they can't pronounce or spell the name. But there's been a battle brewing to rename the Boston landmark, and the group behind the move has once again reached out to Mayor Marty Walsh asking to talk over the issue. The New Democracy Coalition is asking for the city to rename Faneuil Hall because of its ties to slavery, and has threatened a boycott if they aren't given an opportunity to talk about this with officials. Read what the group wrote to Walsh and more about this effort inside and at metro.us.

WELCOME TO
METRO BOSTONPROSECUTORS TO JURY:
MANAFORT HID WEALTH

L U.S. prosecutors on Tuesday portrayed President Donald Trump's onetime campaign chairman Paul Manafort as someone who hid his wealth from political work in Ukraine, as the first trial began arising from an investigation of Russia's interference in the 2016 U.S. election. Manafort felt tax and banking laws did not apply to him, a prosecutor said in the government's opening statement, telling the Virginia federal court jury he opened more than 30 bank accounts in three foreign countries to "receive and hide" income. A defense lawyer presented a drastically different portrait of Manafort and made clear he will go after one of the government's star witnesses, former Manafort associate Rick Gates. Gates pleaded guilty in February to conspiring against the United States and lying to investigators and agreed to cooperate with the investigation. "This case is about taxes and trust," Manafort's attorney Thomas Zehnle told jurors in his opening statement. "His trust in Rick Gates was misplaced," Zehnle said, accusing Gates of embezzling millions of dollars from Manafort.

MAY TAKE DECADES TO ID
REMAINS FROM N. KOREA

2 When the remains of Americans handed over by North Korea arrive in Hawaii on Wednesday, the U.S. military will begin a painstaking identification process that experts said could take from three days to two decades to complete. The 55 boxes, draped in the blue and white flag of the United Nations, are each small enough to be carried in one person's arms. They bear not only the remains thought to be of missing servicemen from the 1950-53 Korean War, but also a message of good faith made by North Korean leader

Kim Jong Un at his summit with U.S. President Donald Trump in June. The remains within each box may not be those of a single person and are likely fragments of bones, said Paul Cole, an expert on recovery of soldiers missing in action and prisoners of war, who worked as a visiting scientific fellow at Hawaii's Central Identification Laboratory where the boxes will land. The commingling of remains reflects the violent impacts to which human beings are subjected in war. At the laboratory, work will be done to determine if the remains are human.

AT LEAST 85 INJURED
IN AEROMEXICO CRASH

4 About 85 people were injured on Tuesday, some seriously, when an Aeromexico-operated Embraer passenger jet crashed just after takeoff in Mexico's state of Durango, but authorities said there were no fatalities. The operator of Durango airport, Grupo Aeroportuario Centro Norte, attributed the crash to bad weather conditions, citing preliminary reports. The mid-sized jet was almost full, with 97 passengers and four crew members aboard, when it came down at around 4 p.m. local time, Gerardo Ruiz Esparza, Mexico's minister for communications and transportation, wrote on Twitter. "The plane was taking off," Governor Jose Rosas Aispuro told Mexican television, adding that witnesses told him there was "a bang" and then without warning the plane was on the ground. TV images showed the severely damaged body of the plane emerging from scrubland and a column of smoke rising into the sky. The plane made an emergency landing about six miles from the airport shortly after taking off, Alejandro Cardoza, a spokesman for the state's civil protection agency, said on local television.

FACEBOOK: MORE MED-
DLING BEFORE MIDTERMS

5 Facebook Inc. said on Tuesday it had identified a new coordinated political influence campaign to mislead its users and sow dissension among voters ahead of November's U.S. congressional elections. It said it had removed 32 pages and accounts from Facebook and Instagram, part of an effort to combat foreign meddling in U.S. elections. The company stopped short of identifying the source of the misinformation. But members of Congress who had been briefed by Facebook on the matter said the methodology of the influence campaign suggested Russian involvement. "I can say I think with pretty high confidence I think this is Russian-related," Senator Mark Warner, the top Democrat on the Senate Intelligence Committee, told reporters at the U.S. Capitol. Two U.S. intelligence officials told Reuters there was not sufficient evidence to conclude that Russia was behind the Facebook campaign, but one noted that "the similarities, aims and methodology relative to the 2016 Russian campaign are quite striking."

Black advocates make final plea to avoid 'racial showdown' over Faneuil Hall name

The New Democracy Coalition is pushing for the city to rename Faneuil Hall and once again reaching out to Mayor Marty Walsh directly.

KRISTIN TOUSSAINT
kristin.toussaint@metro.us

The New Democracy coalition, the Boston-area group pushing for the city to rename Faneuil Hall because of its ties to slavery, has sent an open letter to Mayor Marty Walsh after calling for a black-led boycott of the landmark.

Kevin Peterson, founder of the New Democracy Coalition, last week called for a boycott in a letter to the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce. Because his group has not received any response from the city or opportunity to sit with Walsh to discuss renaming Faneuil Hall, he said, his group would stage sit-ins and demonstrations across the city beginning this summer.

Now, Peterson has written an open letter to Walsh "seeking to avert a full-fledge racial showdown in Boston."

"We boycotters do not desire to protest against our city," he wrote in the open letter. "Even while we note that the current businesses at Faneuil Hall and the Quincy Market Place are majority white-owned and mostly connected to national and multi-national corporations, our impending protests are not meant to hurt commerce in the city."

"Yet, we feel compelled to engage in nonviolent civil disobedience for the right to be heard," he continued, "the right to be respected as black citizens, the right to expect responsiveness from government that shows no shade of intolerance."

The letter points out the realities of being black in Boston: Black male unemployment is disproportionately high, that the black and white divide in terms of net worth is stark, that there are different public education outcomes for whites and blacks.

"Only through deconstructing icons of the past — not by creating new memorials or refurbishing old Civil War monuments as you have recently begun in the wake of our efforts around Faneuil Hall — can we center on the harsh matter of race that is so ostensibly evident," Peterson wrote. "Mayor Walsh, you can neither purchase your way out of this problem with your proposed memorial to slavery. Neither can you distract boycotters by your recent pledge to buff up the Shaw memorial."

The New Democracy Coalition is calling on officials to rename Faneuil Hall because of the landmark's ties to slavery. Peter Faneuil, for whom the area is named, was a Boston merchant, slave trader and slave owner.

Peter Faneuil donated money to the city in order to fund the creation of Faneuil Hall. That money came in part from selling slaves.

When asked for a response to the New Democracy Coalition latest letter, the city pointed to Walsh's previous statement on the issue of renaming Faneuil Hall. The city did not say if there were any plans to meet with the New Democracy Coalition.

"If we were to change the name of Faneuil Hall today, 30 years from now, no one would know why we did it," Walsh previously said. "Not many people know about the history of that man. And over the years, Faneuil Hall has become a place where good things have happened: historic speeches such as Frederick Douglass' call for the end to slavery, the signing of forward thinking legislation like the Affordable Care Act, and where hundreds of people take their oath of citizenship every year. What we should do instead, is figure out a way to acknowledge the history so people understand it. We can't erase history, but we can learn from it."

Beer distribution bill suddenly pops up in House

Certain craft brewers would have new freedom to change how their suds are sold under a bill that moved out of a powerful House committee on the last day of formal sessions.

Under current law, brewers who go into business with a distributor to ship their kegs and cans to Massachusetts bars and package stores become bound to that distributor and cannot fire them without good cause like a failure to promote the product.

A coalition of local breweries, from small batch startups to the industry giant that makes Sam Adams, have sought more leeway for them to swap distribution companies. Distributors have lobbied against such a change, arguing it would lead to consolidation in what is now a diverse marketplace.

Distributors have countered with their own proposal that gives additional maneuvering room to a smaller set of beer-makers, but would not apply to as many breweries as the beer-makers want. Under a bill (H 2823) filed by Rep. John Mahoney, a Worcester Democrat, that is backed by the distributors, breweries that make less than 930,000 gallons of beer annually and are owner-operated and managed by the owner would be able to pull out of distribution agreements.

The brewers have previously pointed to that bill's requirement that the owner be manager as a "poison pill," arguing practically all breweries have hired outside professional management. The 930,000-gallon limit would leave local brewers like Night Shift, Cisco and Trillium still tied to their distributors.

The bill that cleared the House Committee on Ways and Means on Tuesday morning, a redraft of Mahoney's legislation, would give extra freedom to breweries that make less than 3.1 million gallons of beer a year so long as they are "managed only by the owners of the brewery."

Within the committee, 17 state reps voted in favor of the legislation and three reserved their rights, essentially declining to stake out a position.

The bill could emerge for a vote in the House on Tuesday, but the standalone bill has not surfaced in the Senate so far this session. After today, the Legislature plans to embark on informal sessions for the rest of the year, sessions where an objection from any lawmakers can stop any bill. STATE HOUSE NEWS SERVICE

NOTICE OF FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT AND NOTICE OF INTENT TO REQUEST RELEASE OF FUNDS

CITY of BOSTON 26 COURT STREET
BOSTON, MA 02108
NEIGHBORHOOD DEVELOPMENT TEL: 617-635-0603

August 1, 2018

These notices shall satisfy two separate but related procedural requirements for activities to be undertaken by the City of Boston's Department of Neighborhood Development.

REQUEST FOR RELEASE OF FUNDS

On or about August 17, 2018, the City of Boston, acting through its Department of Neighborhood Development (DND), will authorize the Boston Housing Authority to submit a request to the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development Office of Public Housing for the release of Project-Based Voucher Program funding for twenty-two (22) Project Based Section 8 Vouchers under Section 8(o) (13) of the Housing Act of 1937 (42 U.S.C. § 1437f (o) (13)), as amended, to undertake a project known as Orient Heights Phase II.

Orient Heights Phase II

The Orient Heights Phase II project is located on an approximately 15-acre site at 160-228 Faywood Avenue, 1-70 Vallar Road, and 160-250 Waldemar Avenue in the Orient Heights neighborhood of East Boston, Massachusetts. The adjacent neighborhood is characterized by one-to three-story residences on moderate-sized urban lots. The existing state public housing units on site are currently or formerly owned and operated by the Boston Housing Authority (BHA). Excluding the completed first Phase (consisting of 120 units), the existing site is made up of obsolete 1950s-era Boston Housing Authority public housing units in nine (9) three-story masonry buildings, seven (7) two-story masonry townhouse blocks, a community center, and five large structural retaining walls that support steep grade changes on the Project Site. Orient Heights Phase II proposes the demolition of 87 existing units in four (4) buildings, and the construction of 88 new replacement units of state public housing, as well as improvements to the existing infrastructure and open spaces within the Phase Two area. The units will be housed in two townhouse buildings, consisting of eight units each, and one midrise building containing 72 units. Residential units will range from one to four bedrooms, and 10% of these units will be barrier free accessible units. Plans also include 1,500 square feet of community space on the ground floor of the midrise building. The total site area of the Phase Two project will be approximately 122,707 square feet. The total project cost is approximately $47,129,795, with $5,880,000 in Project Based Section 8 Voucher funding over a 20 year term.

FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT

The City of Boston has determined that the project will have no significant impact on the human environment. Therefore, an Environmental Impact Statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (NEPA) is not required. Additional project information is contained in the Environmental Review Record (ERR) on file at the DND Compliance Unit, 26 Court Street, 11th Floor, Boston, MA, and may be examined or copied weekdays 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., excluding legal holidays.

PUBLIC COMMENTS

Any individual, group, or agency may submit written comments on the ERR to the DND Compliance Unit, 26 Court St, Boston, MA 02108. All comments received by August 16, 2018 will be considered by the City of Boston prior to authorizing submission of a request for release of funds. Comments should specify which notice they are addressing.

RELEASE OF FUNDS

The City of Boston certifies to HUD that Martin J. Walsh, in his official capacity as Mayor, consents to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal Courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to the environmental review process and that these responsibilities have been satisfied. HUD's approval of the certification satisfies its responsibilities under NEPA and related laws and authorities, and allows the City of Boston to use Program Funds.

OBJECTIONS TO RELEASE OF FUNDS

HUD will accept objections to its release of funds and the City of Boston's certification for a period of fifteen days following the anticipated submission date or its actual receipt of the request (whichever is later), only if they are on one of the following bases:

(a) The certification was not executed by the Certifying Officer of either the City of Boston; (b) the City of Boston has omitted a step or failed to make a decision of finding required by HUD regulations at 24 CFR Part 58; (c) the grant recipient has committed funds or incurred costs not authorized by 24 CFR Part 58 before approval of a release of funds by HUD; or (d) another Federal agency acting pursuant to 40 CFR Part 1504 has submitted a written finding that the project is unsatisfactory from the standpoint of environmental quality. Objections must be prepared and submitted in accordance with the required procedures (24 CFR Part 58) and shall be addressed to the Environmental Officer, Department of Housing and Urban Development, Thomas P. O'Neill Federal Building, 10 Causeway Street, Boston, MA 02222-1092. Potential objectors should contact HUD to verify the actual last day of the objection period.

Sox load up with Kinsler

Dombrowski chose to stand pat with the bullpen, however.

matthew.burke@metro.us

The Red Sox were relatively quiet on the afternoon of MLB trade deadline day as their biggest move came the night prior. Late Monday night, the Sox added second baseman Ian Kinsler – who has had success in the postseason and should prove to be another veteran leader that the Sox' young, mostly-untested players can look up to.

"We think he makes

us a better ball club, because he goes into second base and is in a spot where he can play basically every day," Red Sox President of Baseball Operations Dave Dombrowski said. "He's a good offensive player and a good defensive player, so we think he makes us a better club."

Kinsler should see the brunt of the time at second base during the postseason as the jury is still out on whether or not Dustin Pedroia will return, and Eduardo Nunez has been inconsistent this season.

David Price, who played with Kinsler while a member of the Detroit Tigers, says that Kinsler is something of a Pedroia clone.

"He's the closest teammate I've ever had to Dustin Pedroia," Price said. "He brings that intensity, that fire, every single day. He's a gamer. He'll make any team better and I'm definitely happy we got him."

Like Pedroia, Kinsler is multiple-time All-Star and a former Gold Glove winner (2016). The 36-year-old is hitting just .239 this season but has picked things up over the past month with a .393 OBP in the month of July.

Standing pat in the 'pen

Much of the buzz heading into trade deadline day was regarding the Red Sox' bullpen but the Sox stood pat on Tuesday. The thinking is that their relief staff has a respectable ERA (sixth in MLB) and that closer Craig Kimbrel and Matt Barnes have been phenomenal. Nathan Eovaldi, who the Red Sox picked up last week and who was outstanding in his first appearance as a member of the team, could also see a relief role this October.
